

Taking your temperature

The doctor or nurse will take your temperature using a thermometer

This will be placed in your outer ear

The doctor or nurse will then take your temperature and tell you the reading

A high temperature is usually considered to be 38C or above.